

WILL UNDERTAKE TO EXPOSE REAL AIMS OF INDIA REFORMER

Sir Sakaran Nair Has Published Opinions Under "Gandhi and Anarchy" Title.

INDORE, India, May 7.—(By Mail).—Sir Sakaran Nair, formerly a member of the Viceroy's Council and also of the Secretary of State's Council, who recently returned from England, has undertaken the task of exposing what he considers to be Gandhi's real aims for India. His opinions, published under the title, "Gandhi and Anarchy," constitutes a vigorous attack on Gandhi and an exposure of the dangers which Sir Nair sees in non-cooperation.

Sir Nair has always remained loyal to the British government, and the gulf between him and Gandhi was made complete at the conference of Moderate leaders held at Bombay recently. In the course of his remarks on the Gandhi movement, he says:

"Though Gandhi himself and the majority of his followers were men who were not well-known in the congress camp or in the strenuous days which preceded the introduction of the reform scheme, his party contained some men who were members of the old constitutional congress, which at that time turned into the present revolutionary congress entirely under the control of Gandhi. There is scarcely an item in the Gandhi program which is not a complete violation of everything preached by the foremost sons of India till 1919, which has not been strongly, even vehemently, denounced by those old respected members of the congress who now follow Gandhi."

"The severe simplicity and austerity of Gandhi's life, combined with his appeal to the principle of 'Ahimsa' (non-injury), inherited from Buddhist and now ingrained in Hindu life, has secured him the support of the Hindu masses, and particularly vegetarians. His indiscriminate support of the extreme Khalist demands has ensured the Mohammedan support. Some politicians who naturally desire to use him and the influence he has acquired for putting pressure on the government to concede further reform, also have joined him. There are of course many genuine patriots who, believing in the efficiency of his methods to obtain home rule, also follow him. But I am satisfied he is using them all to further his own ends, an attempt in which he is bound to fail."

U. S. AND COLOMBIA BECOMING BETTER BUSINESS FRIENDS

Minister From That Country Tells Harding of Increased Cooperation.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The Minister of Colombia to the United States, Dr. Enrique Olaya, in his address to President Harding on the occasion of his formal reception, dwelt upon the increasing business cooperation between Americans and Colombians, and expressed his hope for even better relations in the future.

Developing this idea later to a representative of the Associated Press, Dr. Olaya referred specifically to negotiations now under way with Americans for important public works in Colombia, as for instance, the construction of the Antioquia railroad; the loan for the city of Medellin; improvements at Barranquilla, Colombia's most important seaport on the Atlantic, and the opening up of the deltas at the mouth of the Magdalena river.

American engineers have been studying prospects of development in Colombia, the Minister continued, and have reported favorably on more than one attractive possibility. Also American bankers are showing the real interest in Colombia.

"The notable increase of recent years in the foreign trade of the republic of Colombia," Dr. Olaya continued, "reached the sum of $171,000,000 for the year 1920. This places Colombia fifth among the South American countries, a position attained only by the herculaneum and unceasing efforts of the hard-working and industrious people laboring under disheartening handicaps and difficulties of transportation."

The government of Colombia recognizes the need of better means of communication, and to this end it is studying with careful attention a variety of proposals submitted to it by competent engineers.

The promotion of public works in Cuba will claim the serious attention of the new president of that republic, General Pedro Nel Ospina, now in this country, who returns soon to Colombia where he will assume office August 7.

BOHN

The Refrigerator That Keeps Foods Best at Minimum Cost

The "Bohn Syphon" system insures constant and rapid air circulation which is the real fundamental underlying principle of perfect refrigeration.

It keeps foods delightfully fresh and wholesome and overcomes the mingling of odors.

The eleven thicknesses of wall construction used in the "Bohn Syphon" keeps the heat out and the cold in, reducing ice consumption to a very minimum.

Because it preserves foods best, is very easily taken care of, and costs so little for icing, the "Bohn" has become recognized as the most efficient of all refrigerators.
